From the best bed on Koh Mak, to the best breakfast, best coffee, best view (sitting atop the highest hill plumb centred in this little paradise) and best sunsets of our trip (apart of course from the Salar in Bolivia that is) so far. Our thanks to hosts Allen and Kat for their wonderful hospitality which reflects them perfectly – a mix of old school North American customer service with the attention to detail and a creative, discreet, refined Asian understatement. Soft opening in the coming weeks in time for the height of the season, I have no doubt that Thaidaho Vista will be charting very highly on tripadvisor in the months to come.

We've had a very nice stay here; a great room with a great view! It's a pity that we got to spend only two days here. Great hospitality & thanks for inviting us for New Year's Eve!

Just came back from Koh Kood because I missed the spirit of Koh Mak. Why move to other place if you are in paradise? It's just right here. Thank you again!

Amazing lattes & marsala ice tea! Loved the Woody's breakfast—definitely put it on the menu; and couldn't get enough of the grilled cheese. The guesthouse was quiet, relaxing & had the best view on the island. Thank you for taking great care of us & letting us enjoy your little piece of heaven on Koh Mak.

March 31, 2012: Herbert, Germany

I came to Koh Mak the first time and found this place while walking around the island. Already I had checked in at another place, but I decided immediately to move to Thaidaho Vista. I could not stay longer than two nights, but it would be worth it to stay two weeks and enjoy the place, the huge breakfasts and friendly couple of Allen & Kat.

April 10, 2012: Nelson & Pui, USA & Thailand

Great coffee, good breakfasts! Love your plans for (green) energy, water & other eco concerns.

I'm so impressed with the Vista Room view, really beautiful. Thanks for the hospitality that made us feel like this is our home. The coffee & banana roti are especially awesome.
